

Rezoning hearing scheduled

Elk Point Town Council heard a summary of land zoning principles and procedures at their October 12 regular meeting. Provincial Planner Bob Hutchinson told Council that land use planning in Alberta spans the past eight decades. Elk Point has both a general municipal plan and a land use bylaw in place. The GMP was done in 1986 and was designed to allow for a significant amount of growth, as was anticipated at that time.

Currently, the area designated as C1 Commercial includes the residences on the east side of 51 Avenue, for two blocks north of Railway Avenue. A request has been made that the property occupied by these residences be rezoned to R2 Residential, thus allowing their owners to renovate or enlarge their homes, which is not permitted under the present zoning.

Hutchinson noted that there is a certain amount of vacant space in the commercial area at the current time, and that the area from Main Street to the highway is where commercial development has taken place. Railway Avenue is also zoned commercial. The rezoning would remove ten lots from the commercial zone. There appears to be ample commercial property available without these lots, but the decision whether to rezone will depend on the result of a public hearing. "I can't give you an easy answer," Hutchinson said.

Council later set Monday, November 8 at 7 p.m. for the public hearing.

Date Change

The October 12 meeting was preceded by the annual Organizational Meeting. After a number of years of holding Council meetings on the second and fourth Mondays, a decision was made to change to the first and third Mondays at 7 p.m., as of November 1. A number of committee meetings were combined into a single Committee of the Whole meeting on the first Tuesday of each month at 4:30 p.m. Members of the legal bodies remained the same, as did the Town representatives on various boards and associations. Vern King was added as Town representative on the Interagency committee.

A new member was ratified for the Elk Point Library Board. Andrew Ross is a relative newcomer to the community who uses the library and wishes to help as a board member. Faye Smith has resigned from the Board, as there was too large a ratio of county residents in its makeup. More town residents are still needed to fill the vacant seats on the Board.

The Community Services Board will also be seeking a new member, as one member's term expires shortly.

New Flag

Elk Point's tricolored flag with elk head will soon be faded into history. Council voted unanimously to create a new flag using the Town logo as a centrepiece. The elk head flag was designed by former mayor Byron Mann, and the present Council does not feel it identifies the community.

Halloween Hours

Halloween hours have been set for 4 to 7 p.m. on Sunday, October 31.

Candidates face off

The threat of a "full-blown separatist movement" in the House of Commons, depending on the fortunes of the Bloc Quebecois at the polls Monday, is something Canadians should be concerned about, according to incumbent MP Deborah Grey.

Speaking at an all-candidates forum in Elk Point Friday night at the Seniors' Recreation Centre, Grey reiterated her party's stand on Quebec, receiving loud applause when she stated: "We love Quebec but we love you as one of 10 equal provinces in this country."

Grey was joined by Conservative Dave Broda, Liberal Michael Zacharko and New Democrat Eugene Houle, in what was the second last forum of this election campaign. A crowd of about 170 people turned out to hear the candidates' views on several issues.

In response to a view from a member of the audience that any money spent on bilingualism in Canada be spent in Quebec, Zacharko expressed the opinion that, "I think we have far more serious problems than outlawing French in the West."

Pastor Jim MacLellan, Elk Point Baptist Church, questioned the candidates as to what legislation they would support to enhance the integrity of the family unit in Canadian society.

Heavy turnout at advance polls

Come election day, Monday, Oct. 25, some 43,000 people in the federal riding of Beaver River will be registered to vote, according to returning officer Lorne Assheton-Smith. Just how many of them will exercise that right to vote remains to be seen.

However, if Saturday's advance poll is any indication, voter turnout in this election looks promising. Assheton-Smith said the first day of advance polls saw a "heavy turnout."

Advance polls were also slated for yesterday and today, Oct. 18 and 19 from 12

"There's no question family is the key to Canadian quality of life," Zacharko said.

Grey went further stating that she is "committed to family from the beginning to end," and that family life starts with individual life. She expressed the fact that she is personally against abortion and euthanasia.

Houle spoke of native people as having "a rich family, a rich culture." But their "involvement with outside communities" has resulted in a high suicide rate and mortality rate in native communities.

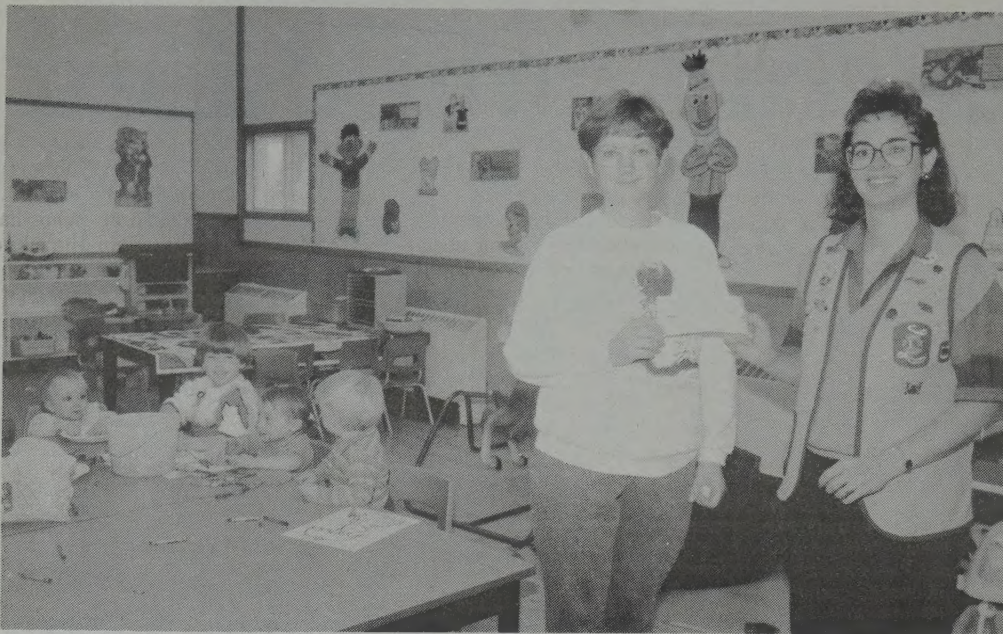

"Families are very important to me," Broda said. "We have to preserve the quality of life we have built for ourselves." He added, that he is against abortion if it is used as a form of contraception.

The issue of capital punishment was raised, with a member of the audience asking which party is prepared to bring it back for public discussion. The same individual wanted to know the candidates' views on the Young Offenders Act.

NEW SCOUTING LEADERS INVESTED - Grant Nixon, Jerome Keichinger and Tim Zarowny were sworn in as new leaders by District Commissioner Roxanne Ringuette at the annual Elk Point Scouting Association Investiture last week. Scout Nathan Harper assisted in the ceremony. See back page for story and more photos.

LIONESS DONATES TO PARENT NURSERY - Cheryl Dzerdz of the Elk Point Parent Nursery accepts a $75 donation from Elk Point and District Lioness Club, represented by Holly Astill, to help fund the year's activities.

FGM PTA to meet Wednesday

The possibility of education funding cuts of 20 to 30 percent will be discussed at the Wednesday, October 20 meeting of the F. G. Miller High School Parent Teacher Association. Education funding roundtable discussions are in the works, and information will be given on these at the meeting, as well as any updates on the situation.

Lest We forget

The Royal Canadian Legion Elk Point Branch No. 151 invites all young and young at heart, from everywhere to "Remember" the sacrifices made by those who envisioned an oppression and discrimination free future in this land, our Canada. A special ceremony will be held at the Elk Point Senior Recreation Centre, November 11. Please be present at 10:30 a.m. and participate in the indoor parade. Wearing a poppy is an entrance requirement.

The Legion has made special arrangements for families and individuals, who wish to remember their loved ones, who grow old no longer, as we, who are left grow old, by laying a wreath. The requested donation is $30.00. A light snack will be available after the ceremonies. Further information at 724-4463 and leave a message after the "beep".

BY-LAW 542/93

A BY-LAW OF THE TOWN OF ELK POINT, IN THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA, AUTHORIZING THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL TO AMEND THE LAND USE BY-LAW 450/87 OF THE TOWN OF ELK POINT.

WHEREAS, under the provisions of Section 139 and 140 of the Planning Act, being chapter P-9 of the Revised Statutes of Alberta, 1980, with amendments thereto, the Council of the Town of Elk Point is required to give notice and hold a Public Hearing to amend its Land-Use By-Law.

NOW THEREFORE, THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF ELK POINT, IN COUNCIL ASSEMBLED, ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:

1. Land Use By-Law No. 450/87 be amended to rezone Lots 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, Block 1 Plan 5389CL and Lot 7, Block 4 Plan 5389CL. a) from C1 Commercial to R.2 Residential Medium Density District.

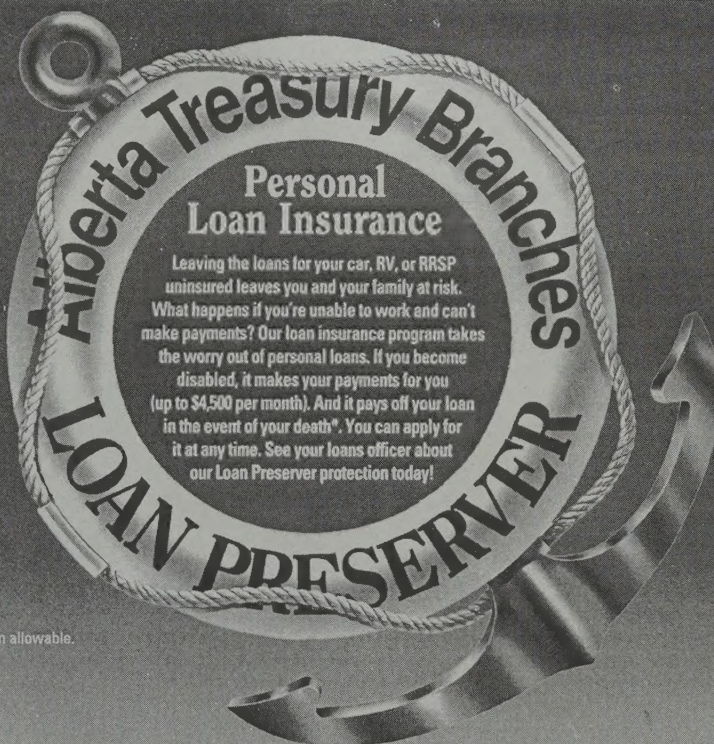

PURPOSE: To rezone a C1 (Central Commercial District to R-2 Residential Medium Density) zoning area. The proposed By-Law change can be inspected at the Town of Elk Point office between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Council of the Town of Elk Point shall hold Public Hearing on By-Law No. 542/93 on Monday, November 15, 1993 at 18:30 at the Town of Elk Point Chambers, Elk Point, Alberta and shall by written submissions entertain any person or persons who wishes to make presentations concerning the manner in which any provision of the proposed By-Law No. 542/93 may affect him/her or an owner of the land whom he/she represents. Council shall consider the presentation at the Public Hearing and make any amendments necessary.

If no written submission questioning the proposed By-Law are received by Council prior to the designated time frame, the council will consider passing By-Law No. 542/93.

SHOCKING PINK PAPER

The Shocking Pink Paper is a 1993 publication by the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women. The Council will be at the Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre on Saturday, October 23 from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m. to discuss this and other concerns with the Elk Point community. Everyone (that means men too!) is invited to attend this meeting to share concerns about women's issues and for the Council to gain a better understanding on some of the needs of our area. Child care services will be available. To confirm your participation call Community Services at 724-3800.

PLANNING FESTIVALS AND SPECIAL EVENTS

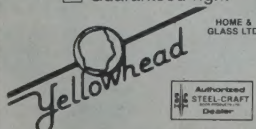

Be sure to attend this seminar on October 23, 24 and November 5 at Lakeland College, Vermilion Campus. Festivals and events are a terrific draw to encourage visitors to communities. Successfully coordinated special events are economically beneficial to communities who host them. This seminar will introduce participants to a practical overview of the skills and knowledge required to plan, organize, manage and evaluate an event or conference. The seminar will appeal to service groups, seniors' organizations, agricultural societies, merchants' and retailers' associations, Canada Day committees, pow wow promoters, sports and recreation

Lest we forget

To the Editor:

Lest we forget those men, women and children who gave their all, so that we may live in peace, have freedom of speech, freedom of belief and, in short, freedom of choice to be who and what we are. We enjoy the right to do business, to associate and to work.

These men, women and children are remembered by the Royal Canadian Legion on November 11. These people may have been members of the regular forces or resistance or pioneers. Among the pioneers are the First People, the Second People and those that are both of the First and Second People, the true Canadians.

Take time to remember what caused these people to give their all. Oppression, greed and all under the guise of discrimination, "Aryan purity," "ethnic cleansing," "white supremacy," "religious conformity," you name it, it has all been, and is still being, used. They did not want that for their families and their future.

The Royal Canadian Legion wants to insure that we, Canadians (not hyphenated), remember and do not forget these causes of bloody, cruel war. Discrimination and greed are the prime causes of this terrible affliction. Oh, we can point the finger to Bosnia and Serbia, Germany, Somalia, Ethiopia, Northern Ireland, Lebanon, Israel, the whole of the former USSR. But do not forget Canada. The Newfoundlanders, the French, the Ukrainians, the Pakistanis, the Natives, the Chinese, the Jews and all the derogatory remarks made about them and others. Remember, there are rotten apples in every bushel, but does that mean that you are one?

We are all what we were born with - all colors and shapes and our peculiar gene makeup. Our first language is that of our parents, we had no choice. Besides, who asks a newborn that and gets an understandable answer? Our father determines our sex, again no choice. We were brought up in their likeness, beliefs and biases. As a child, again, no choice.

We are born with abilities, but whether we use them or not, that is our choice. Believe me, you can become whatever you want to be. But foremost, have respect for your fellow being. Again, your choice. If you show respect for your neighbors, they will respect you for what and who you are, not what you look like or religious beliefs you may have or language you speak.

The Elk Point Legion asks you to consider this and accept our invitation to join with us on November 11 and as a community, business, organization or individual, lay wreaths, wear poppies and Remember! With your donations, we pledge to work for this community without discrimination. But please, reply to our invitation, regardless of your decision. We believe we have earned an answer from you.

Cadet reunion

Dear Editor:

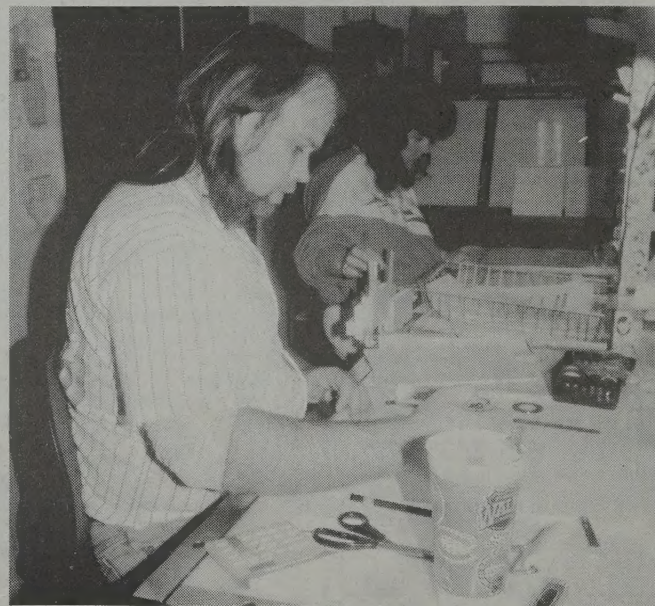

Since 1949, at the rate of 1500 each summer, well over 135 Canadian and 2000 American teenagers have attended the Vernon Army Cadet Camp, in Vernon, British Columbia. The training they received has made them pretty good Canadian and American citizens.

These boys and girls came from, and still do come from every small village, town and city in Canada and Washington State. They're so spread out, we don't know where they are... and now, many of them are in their twenties, thirties, forties and fifties.

The first ever reunion of the Vernon Army Cadet Camp will be held the 22, 23, 24 July, 1994 at Vernon B.C. Originally, the reunion was planned for the year 1999 (the 50th year) but unfortunately, the powers that be are planning to close the camp down after the summer of 1994. We're going to try to keep it open, but it's rough going.

The Vernon Reunion Hotline is (604)268-9977, or they can write to P.O. Box 88560, Surrey, B.C., V3W 0X1. With your help this could be one of the largest reunions ever.

Yours very sincerely,
Jeffery H. Aitken
Reunion Chairman

Friends of the Forts meet

Irene Magnusson

Elk Point Contributor

A round dozen members of the Friends of the Forts met October 5 to hear results of the summer's activities and financial ups and downs to date.

Shiela Thompson, chairman, opened, with Secretary Debra Kilby reading the minutes. There was a raffle held, with over $475 realized. Income from the Gift Shop was quite good, also books were sold. Jeanne May, treasurer, gave a detailed accounting of funds received and expended; costs were considerable, so not much could be chalked up to profit. All entry fees are passed along to the government, as it is their building. Close to 5000 people toured the Interpretive Centre and the grounds.

The fall Newsletter was discussed, and some items were handed in.

A report of the Friends Workshop held in Cardston in September was given by Pat Johnson, who attended for the Friends; a lot of good information and advice were given, and the trip to Cardston was an interesting tour which included stops at Red Deer, Head-Smashed-In Buffalo Jump and Fort Macleod. Louise Crane also attended, and gave her impressions. The agenda covered four days.

The Autumn 1993 copy of Alberta Past was made available to all members (a free publication of Alberta Community Development), a most interesting publication, featuring this time, the Fort Dunvegan Historical Society. Dunvegan is a place I know well, and the given background is most interesting. That the paper also carries a photo and writeup by our own Vicki Brooker urges one to 'read up.' The back page Fall Calendar of events looks promising, too.

The group agreed that more effort must be put into funding, and some grants will be researched, as well as other fundraising projects.

The Chairman suggested the next meeting could be a craft-creating session, following business; this to be held on November 2, possibly in the F. G. Miller High School.

Frank Mayner was welcomed back into the group, after his summer's travels, when he and Mrs. Mayner visited many forts and other historical sites in the eastern provinces.

Zacharko said he does not believe in the death penalty. In regards to the Young Offenders Act, he said toughening up the act is not necessarily the answer. "They need you love and your care. They don't need revenge imposed on them."

Broda supports the death penalty and is of the opinion that names of young offenders should be made public and the act toughened up.

Grey said Prime Minister Kim Campbell had the opportunity to do something about the Young Offenders Act when she was Justice minister. Grey would like to see the age lowered to 10 and she'd like to see parents make retribution.

A Grand Centre resident wanted to know from the candidates if they would put Beaver River interests ahead of their party lines.

"The party did not hire me, you did," Grey said. "I vote for my constituents wishes above those of my party."

To which Zacharko replied, "When you have a caucus of one you can't argue with yourself. This is not a local government, not a town council. This is a nation. I would vote for the (interests of the) majority of the people in the country."

Both Houle and Broda said they would represent their constituents first.

Immigration, the GST, education, foreign aid, small business programs, the deficit, health care and seniors pensions were also up for discussion during the evening which was sponsored by the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce and hosted by the Pioneer Circle.

Advance polls

noon to 8 p.m.

In the 1988 federal election 72 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. While the March 1989 byelection saw only 52 per cent voter turnout.

Wednesday, Oct. 20 is the last day for revisions to the voters' list. If you're unsure if you're on the list check with Elections Canada staff at the St. Paul office located in the old Toyota building, or phone 645-9340.

Polls open Monday at 9 a.m. and will close that same day at 8 p.m.

A Personal Message to Canadians from Preston Manning

Dear Canadian:

As I've travelled across Canada, I have listened to you speak about the kind of Canada you want to live in. At the heart of matters, you have said that you want real and positive change, so that you and your families can better fulfill your dreams and aspirations. Through Reform, positive change is now much closer than we imagine.

As more and more Canadians choose constructive change and reject "politics as usual", vicious and false attacks on Reform increase, I am writing you to ask you to reject the politics of fear practiced by the old-line politicians, and urge you to support the positive change that Reform represents.

Reform's proposal to balance Canada's books offers hope. It's common sense that you can't borrow your way to prosperity, only to bankruptcy. By controlling government spending, eliminating waste, and setting spending priorities, we will be on the road to lower taxes, to good jobs, and to saving the social programs that we all value and need.

Reform's proposals to save social programs offer hope. Canada's social programs are the envy of the world, but because of twenty years of out-of-control government spending, the programs are in trouble. Reform is facing up to the problems by discussing them with Canadians, and by pledging to preserve full federal funding for our highest priorities, including health care. Like you, we want quality health care when we need it, regardless of our personal financial situation. Reform also wants to save the heart of our pension system so seniors can feel secure about their future.

Reform's proposals to restore democracy to the political system offers hope. By giving the people the power to recall their MPs, politicians will be accountable to us, both morally and legally; and by holding referendums on major issues, including referendums initiated by the people, Canadians will be heard all of the time, not just at election time. And Reform's commitment to the equality of all Canadians is our pledge that no federal policy will discriminate against anyone because of race, language, culture, creed or gender.

Reform's proposal for a responsible minority government, sensitive to the wishes of the people, offers hope. Twenty years of irresponsible majority governments has given us chronic unemployment, a mountain of debt, high taxes, and a political system that locks Canadians out. The Liberals are now demanding another majority in Parliament. Reformers believe this demand should be rejected. Mr. Chretien has refused to tell Canadians about his intentions. He has said, "Let me win the election and after that, you come and ask me questions about how I run a government." (Calgary Sun, October 10, 1993). Canadians have a lot to lose from an irresponsible, blank cheque majority government run by the Liberals, and a lot to gain from a responsible minority government kept honest by Reformers.

We can make a responsible minority government work by "breaking the back" of party discipline and making it possible to defeat a government bill without defeating the government. Finally, for a Minority Parliament to work for Canada, the Balance of Power must be held by federalists, not separatists. This means that, in the next Parliament, Bloc Quebecois members must be outnumbered by Reformers.

You can reject the politics of fear, embrace positive change, and help make a responsible minority government work, by supporting your Reform Party candidate on October 25th. You can make this election count by voting with the courage of conviction for what you believe to be right for yourself, your children, and your country.

Yours sincerely,

Preston Manning

Only one week of campaigning left

With election day, Oct. 25, now just around the corner, candidates in the federal constituency of Beaver River are running out of time to make a lasting impression on area voters.

In Elk Point Friday night for an election forum, incumbent MP Deborah Grey was obviously confident, buoyed by recent polls showing the Reform Party ahead in Alberta and proving itself to be a force to be reckoned with in other regions of Canada as well.

In speaking with the Journal prior to the start of the forum, Grey was asked about her plan of attack for the remaining few days of the campaign.

"Why would I change anything? I've been saying the same thing for four and a half years."

The root problem for many Canadians, she said, remains the deficit. Jobs, health care and social programs are also on everyone's minds.

Candidates in Beaver River have found themselves facing a demanding public election forum schedule, sometimes as many as three a week. Grey said she recognizes them as being important to the election process.

"I think they're terrific. There's always some new questions and we're able to hear people's views and opinions, and they hear ours."

Asked to comment on the fact that a Toronto Reform candidate was expelled from the party last week for making racist statements, Grey responded strongly.

"We threw him out. It's dealt with. It's unfortunate it happened. There is no room for racism in the Reform party, so he was dismissed that very day."

Grey described as "dreadful" the advertising campaign launched by the Conservatives last week that depicted Jean Chretien in less than flattering poses.

"You just don't do that. They did the same kind of thing in the Charlottetown referendum. It's pathetic."

However, Conservative candidate Dave Broda, also on hand for the Elk Point forum, expressed the view that he didn't believe his party's advertising campaign was meant to intentionally poke fun at the Liberal leader's facial features.

"I'm sure it wasn't meant in that respect," Broda said, admitting, however, that he had yet to see the ads in question.

Broda said he will continue to go "door to door" with his campaign this week. He said he'll be concentrating on the Grand Centre and Cold Lake area as he hasn't been able to spend much time in that area up to this point.

"Still the number one issue for people is the deficit and jobs."

Liberal candidate Michael Zacharko said, prior to the start of the Elk Point forum, that "people are disgusted" with the Conservative ad campaign.

"People are disgusted that someone would make fun of a physical disability. That is the work of the national campaign committee, it is in no way a reflection of the people working in the trenches. Spin doctors in the campaign thought they would provoke something."

Zacharko said he will spend this last week of the campaign out and about touching base with as many people as possible.

"We Liberals believe in creating an atmosphere for the creation of wealth, and that wealth must be distributed fairly in society by building decent towns, good schools and good hospitals."

As for Premier Ralph Klein's prediction last week that the Reform party will win the West, specifically Alberta and B.C., Zacharko wasn't impressed.

"It's a case of Ralph being a loose cannon. For the leader of a Tory government in the province to say that, if I were in his boots I would never have said that."

Meanwhile, New Democrat candidate Eugene Houle told the Journal following the forum, that he has not been running a full-time campaign in Beaver River because of other responsibilities.

"I have a full-time occupation. This is something on the side. I was only nominated two weeks ago, I have other engagements," Houle said.

Asked if he was somewhat of a reluctant candidate, agreeing to run so the New Democrats would have a name on the ballot, Houle said, "You could say that."

The fact that native concerns have received very little attention this campaign does not surprise Houle, a former chief of Saddle Lake.

"I can understand that they are not involved. The deficit has overshadowed this election," he said, adding that it's important to recognize that native people are a diverse group that cannot be "lumped into one basket."

Houle described his party as continuing in its role as the "social conscience" of the country.

Foster families making a difference

In the St. Paul area, 16 families open their homes and their hearts on an ongoing basis to children who, for one reason or another, have been placed into foster care.

Foster Family Week, Oct. 17 to 23, recognizes the commitment of these families and the 1,300 foster families around Alberta who provide care to 2,300 foster children.

Foster parents play an essential role in providing a temporary home situation until a child can be adopted or returned to his or her natural parents, according to local child care worker Terry Sabatier.

In September, area foster families came together to rejuvenate the St. Paul and District Foster Parent Association. The reason behind the association is to provide a means of communication between area foster parents and, perhaps most importantly, provide a support system for one another.

The association's president is John Gottenbos. He and his wife Mabel, a past-president of the association, have been foster parents for 14 years. During that time they have had 52 children come into their home, many of them young ones, sometimes no more than a few days old, straight out of hospital.

They have them for a time, provide the care and attention the children so desperately need, and then see them go on to be adopted or returned to their natural parents.

"We've always liked little children," Mabel said. "We take three-day or five-day-old babies quite often. We've dealt with a lot of physically frail (many suffering from fetal alcohol syndrome) kids. They (Social Services) know we always have a couple of extra beds in the middle of the night."

Sometimes the children are there for only a brief time, others stay longer. One little girl arrived only a few days old and didn't leave until five and a half years later. However, the average stay is three to six months.

The couple admits it's never easy to see a child leave their home, but they take comfort in knowing they have made some kind of positive difference in a child's life.

"The biggest thing with all foster parents is how much of a difference you can make in their lives, the way they think and the way they act," Mabel said.

Sabatier agreed.

"A lot of the time foster parents are the one or two people that have made that big change in their life."

The St. Paul area needs more foster families, according to Sabatier. She would like to see at least 20 in total.

"We always need more homes. We need committed foster parents and there needs to be continued community support for foster parents."

It is important to stress that becoming a foster parent involves much more than providing a needy child with a home.

"Kids now are much more damaged and foster parents need a lot of special skills," Sabatier said. "They (foster children) have a multitude of problems."

As a result, foster parents are provided with ongoing training to help them deal with special problems. Workshops and training sessions through the department and support through the association, help to ensure the best possible care is being provided to children.

"We work very much as a team. Foster parents need to have a lot of knowledge and information available to them. Support (for foster families) from the community, the department and other foster parents is important," Sabatier said.

During Foster Family Week this week, the association has an information display at the St. Paul Shopping Centre. On Oct. 22, foster parents will on hand from noon to 9 p.m. to share their experiences and knowledge with interested people.

If you are interested in learning more about foster care, please contact John Gottenbos at 645-2687 or Terry Sabatier at 645-6370.

Vice-president of the local foster parent association is Walter Anderson of Fishing Lake and secretary-treasurer is Lee Wruth of Elk Point.

Thank You to Foster Parents

Power Smart Month promotes energy management

Every day Albertans use electricity to cook, clean, heat, freeze, light, cool, listen, play, watch, wash, dry, compute, build and do endless other activities at home, school and work. If they're Power Smart, and use their electric energy more wisely, they can do exactly the same things and significantly reduce their power bill at the same time.

Earlier this month, communities throughout Alberta and across the country joined with their local power company to proclaim October as Power Smart month.

"Power Smart month is intended to help people recognize how electric energy affects their lives and how they can manage their energy use more wisely," said Melanie Owen, residential energy use advisor... "We rarely stop to consider just how important electricity is and how much we depend on it for everything from cooking meals to doing spreadsheets on a computer. Nearly every aspect of our lifestyle is affected by the availability of electric energy."

Despite our dependence on electricity, few of us give much thought to managing and using it more effectively. As a result, Albertans waste anywhere from 5 per cent to 25 per cent of their electricity. During the course of the year that can add up to several hundred dollars taken right from the family budget.

To promote wise energy management, Alberta Power Limited, the local sponsor of Power Smart month, has designated Wednesday, October 27 as "Energy Savings Night." Customers will be encouraged to participate in a variety of activities that promote more effective energy use.

"Energy Savings Night" is a time for us all to slow down and spend more time together," said Owen. "Rather than the normal hustle and bustle, this is an opportunity to focus on activities that can involve customers and their families; that don't require a lot of preparation and promote energy management at the same time."

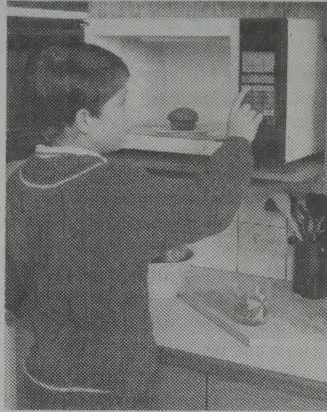

Energy Savings Night could start at the dinner table with an energy saving meal prepared using good energy management techniques. A discussion about the role of electric energy and ways to manage it, and other forms of energy, more wisely could lead to the family conducting an "energy audit" in their home...

"The audit is a room by room check to determine where and how energy is being used efficiently," said Owen. "It's not complicated and only takes a few minutes in each room. And the amount of money saved over the course of year, makes it a very worthwhile investment. (A free "Energy Scorecard" booklet is available at any Alberta Power office.)

Activities such as playing a board game or reading are also energy saving options for a fun evening. Some people may want to go for a walk or do something else outside. The possibilities are endless.

According to Owen, there are many simple, inexpensive ways to reduce wasted energy in the home. "Just turning out a light when you leave a room can be the start to big savings on your electrical bill. Installing energy efficient light bulbs and using your microwave more can result in lower energy bills."

Owen added that the kitchen is another good place for saving energy. "Did you know that every time you open the oven door to check whatever you're cooking, reduces the oven temperature by approximately 75 degrees. That's wasted energy: that wonderful aroma escaping from the oven, just may be the smell of money being burned."

During the audit no room or activity should be overlooked. "There are ways to save money in every room in the house," said Owen. "Check the windows and doors for weatherstripping and caulking.

Turn things off when you're finished using them. Use only what you need."

Energy management affects us all. Aside from the personal expense of wasting electricity, there is an environmental impact as well. "Using or wasting more power means that utility companies have to produce more electricity. To meet the demand may require bigger generation and distribution facilities," said Owen. "Being Power Smart means less energy waste and less impact on the environment cause by electricity generation. In the long run customers save money, power companies save money and we all help save the environment."

To help customers prepare for "Energy Savings Night" Alberta Power has prepared a "PowerPak" information guide, available free at any Alberta Power office.

Established in 1927, Alberta Power Limited is an investor-owned power company serving approximately 150,000 residential, farm, commercial and industrial customers in 330 communities throughout northern and east-central Alberta, as well as a number of communities in British Columbia and Saskatchewan.

You have the Power!

Energy management comes home to Alberta.

October is Power Smart Month! At Alberta Power, we believe that using energy efficiently is the bright thing to do. It's good for your pocketbook and good for our environment too. By being energy efficient, everyone wins. And Power Smart Month is a great time to start!

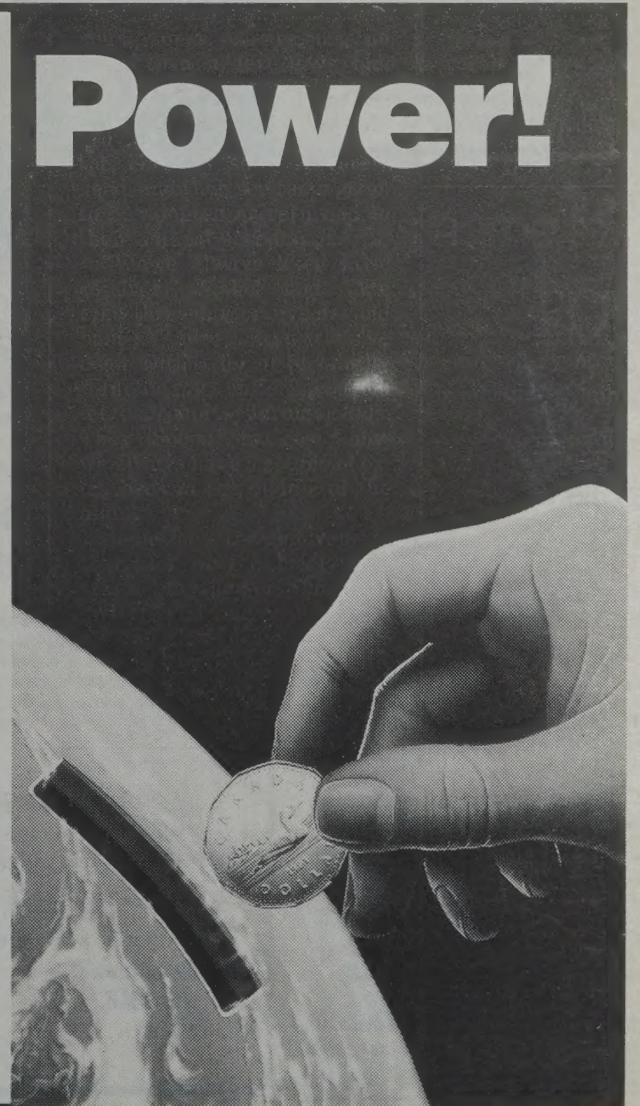

To help you and your family put Power Smart ideas to work in your own home, we've created the "PowerPak", an entertaining and educational information package. The PowerPak contains a variety of tips and practical ideas for smart energy management in the home. You'll also learn about "Energy Savings Night" on October 27, an opportunity for you and your family to spot "energy wasters" in your home.

The PowerPak is available at all Alberta Power offices. Pick up a PowerPak for your family and get involved in Power Smart Month.

You have the power to make a difference.

POWER SMART

Grey is the pick of the stars

Trying to choose between the different candidates come election time can be so confusing a voter can end up seeing stars. While maybe the voter should study the stars. With the help of local star gazer Giselle Zelina (not her real name), the St. Paul Journal has charted out the stars for the candidates in Beaver River.

Astrologically, Oct. 25, 1993 is a highly charged day for an election.

If Kim Campbell had been advised by astrologers when choosing an election date, she would have been warned to stay clear of Oct. 25.

But since she and other children of narrow science turn their noses up at the wisdom of the ancients, they often pay the price.

The sun will be just slipping into Scorpio on Oct. 25 and the moon will be newly in Pisces. Mercury and Mars are solidly in Scorpio.

With four planets in water signs, Canadians will be voting from pure, passionate and unreasonable emotion. Very few people will be moved to make a rational choice. The results will be unpredictable and surprise even the pollsters.

Dave Broda, PC, (born Sept. 17, 1944) -- On Oct. 25, Broda, a strong Virgo personality with a touch of Libra and Cancer in his chart, will be feeling very optimistic but Uranus transiting in the second house indicates the possibility of a sudden loss. He will want to make some hasty decisions and will be tempted to hold a grudge. His Mercury is square with Uranus on election day and this makes him apt to use sarcasm and jump to foolish conclusions when crossed.

Guy C. Germain, Natural Party, (born Sept. 26, 1965) -- A Libra personality with four planets in water, he has a great need for harmony and has very spiritual nature. Venus trine Saturn makes him dependable, a hard worker and loyal.

On Oct. 25, the Moon conjuncting with Saturn has a depressing effect on his feelings and he is apt to feel very disillusioned with life and politics. It is a good day for him to contemplate and meditate, Saturn square Mars indicates a poor day to travel.

Deborah Grey, Reform Party, (born July 1, 1952) A Cancer personality, with her Venus and Uranus in Cancer and Mars in Scorpio, she may have a tendency to hold a grudge.

Oct. 25 will be an emotional roller coaster for her, in spite of Jupiter in the first house indicating that lady luck will be smiling on her.

She will be tempted to be reckless with her new found finances and will be drawn to material symbols.

Uranus square Neptune will turn her toward abstract philosophies and away from the real world.

Eugene Houle, New Democrat (born, Sept. 10, 1949) --

With the most balanced chart of all the candidates, he is a Virgo with his sun trine Jupiter. This aspect makes it easy for him to be honest and forthright in his dealings with the public.

His planets are evenly distributed in the elements of fire, water, air and earth helping him to blend realism and compromise, making him diplomatic yet assertive.

October 25 will be a very energetic day for Eugene. Saturn sextile the moon gives him the ability to understand his emotions and use them to communicate wisely with others. Uranus trine the Sun indicates great potential for personal growth and Neptune trine the sun marks a resurgence of idealism in his life.

Mike Zacharko, Liberal, (born, July 31, 1934) -- A Leo with moon in in Aries, he is ambitious, impulsive and stubborn. His Mercury conjunct Pluto makes him shrewd and able to understand the inner workings of big systems, but Mercury Venus and Mars, in the impressionable sign of Cancer makes him very sensitive. His commitment to public life is strong but it takes its toll.

With the sun transiting the first house Oct. 25, his energy will be high and his confidence strong. Uranus and Neptune square the moon, making it essential that he gets control of his feelings election day so that he doesn't impulsively say some things he'll be sorry for.

Strictly, astrologically speaking, Eugene Houle is the candidate of choice without question if we look at his personal attributes and human potential.

The way the planets line up though, makes it most beneficial for Deborah Grey.

The emotional intensity of the day will give people full expression of their deepest negative emotions of betrayal, resentment, anger and fear and all the traditional parties will fail.

BRODA, MAZ VISIT ELK POINT SENIORS - PC candidate Dave Broda (left) and former Deputy Prime Minister Don Mazankowski stopped at Heritage Lodge during their campaign visit to Elk Point on Friday. Here, they are shown visiting with Caroline Krzan and Rose Falenda (right). They also visited the residents of Buckingham House and Fort George Manor, as well as doing some mainstreeting.

Rescue kit presented

EDMONTON - A specially equipped rescue kit was presented to the Fishing Lake Metis Settlement by Russ Kowtun, St. Paul District Officer for Alberta Public Safety Services. Receiving the Rescue Kit on behalf of the First Nation were Randy Parenteau, Bob Hornseth and Sandy Desjarlais.

Alberta Public Safety Services is responsible for ensuring that municipalities and First Nations in the province of Alberta are prepared and equipped to respond quickly and effectively to emergencies or disasters for the prevention of loss of life and property.

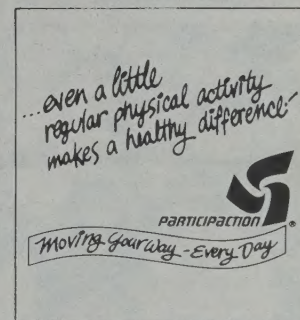

The Department of Indian and Northern Affairs Canada entered into an agreement with Alberta Public Safety Services in October 1989 to fund the cost of delivering emergency preparedness programs to Alberta First Nations. This First Nation is the tenth to qualify for and receive a rescue kit under this program. To qualify for the rescue kit, the First Nation must have a rescue team trained to Alberta Public Safety Services standards.

The kit contains a 4000 watt generator and portable lighting system, stretchers, blankets, ropes, a 6000 pound capacity come-along and chain, a six ton hydraulic jack and a high pressure airbag lifting system with 44,000 pound lifting capacity.

"Since the rescue kit program began in 1974, Alberta Public Safety Services has issued over 295 kits to municipalities, and 10 kits to First Nations under the new program which started in 1991. This program is directed primarily at those communities which have limited resources and operate emergency response services, such as fire and rescue, on a volunteer basis. These rescue kits help improve their emergency response capability," said Peter Trynchy, Minister, Alberta Public Safety Services.

Other communities in the area which have already received rescue kits include Cold Lake First Nations, Town of Bonnyville, Town of Grand Centre, Town of Cold Lake, ID 18 South, Elizabeth Metis Settlement, Village of Glendon, County of St. Paul No. 19 and Kehewin First Nation.

COMETS CELEBRATED SEASON END - Last spring's windup saw the end of a very successful soccer season for the rejuvenated soccer club. Another great season, this time indoors, is in the offing. Thanks to the soccer mom who loaned us this photo, as ours had not turned out.

Soccer moves indoors

Last spring's outdoor action proved to be such fun for the Elk Point Comets Soccer Club, that they have moved indoors for a fall and winter session. Registration was last night, and Indoor Soccer will be held Mondays from October 25 to March 28.

Tentative schedule, depending on registrations, has

Parents and Tots (4 and 5 years, as of August 1) playing from 5:00 to 5:30 p.m., Under 8 (ages 6 or 7) from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m. and Under 10 (ages 8 or 9) from 3:15 to 4:45 p.m. each Monday. Children must be registered in the appropriate age groups, and cannot be registered in a group for which they are too young or too old.

Each player will need indoor runners and shin pads for practice.

Coaching volunteers, and volunteers for the executive and committees are welcomed. For further information, call Carol Korpan at 724-2604 or Valerie Goetz at 724-2711.

Canadian Cancer Society launches Breast Health Month

October is Breast Health Month. The Canadian Cancer Society has initiated this nationwide program, dedicated to educating Canadian women and their families about the importance of early detection of breast cancer. Early detection provides the best opportunity to treat breast cancer successfully.

Breast cancer is the most common form of cancer in Canadian women: one out of ten women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. In 1992, over 15,700 new cases were projected, and 5,200 women died of this disease.

"Every woman is at risk for breast cancer, and risk increases with age," said Ann Toombs, President of the Canadian Cancer Society, Alberta/N.W.T. Division. "By following a simple three-step early detection program, many women could save their own lives. As a breast cancer patient myself, I am living proof that early detection works."

Recent media reports have created a great deal of confusion about breast cancer. The Canadian Cancer Society is urging all Canadians to learn the facts about breast cancer, and to join with their physicians in monitoring their health.

The Canadian Cancer Society recommends this three-step early detection program:

-- Practice monthly Breast self-examination - The Canadian Cancer Society recommends that every woman from the age of 20 should examine her breasts every month.

-- See a physician for regular breast examination - All women should have regular physical examination of their breasts by a health professional.

-- Schedule regular mammograms - All women aged 50 - 69 should have a screening mammogram every two years.

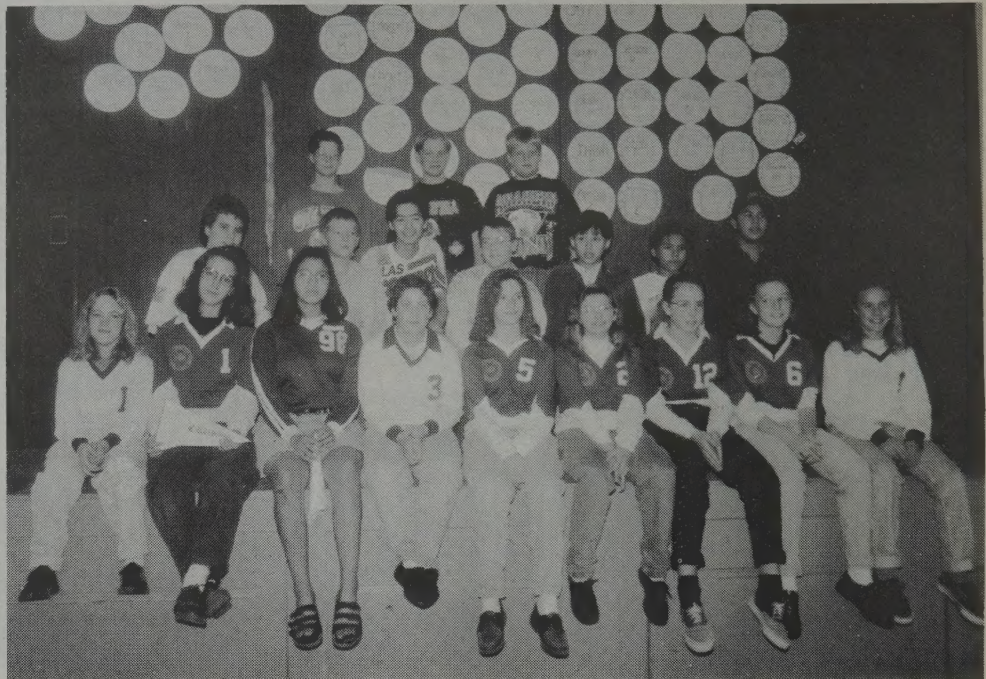

The Canadian Cancer Society provides educational materials and programs about breast health and early detection of breast cancer. Volunteers also offer support to breast cancer patients through the Reach to Recovery Programme. While these programmes take place all year long, October has been declared Breast Health Month to help focus attention on this fight against breast cancer.

Player chooses Thunder over Junior B

A member of the Elk Point Thunder midget hockey team has decided to remain as part of that squad, despite being accepted to play with the Lloydminster Junior B Bandits.

Monty Kenyon tried out for the Bandits and was accepted, but then made the choice to remain with his hometown team.

Thunder Coach Ron Dunlop said Kenyon was a second year Bantam who was brought up to play with the Midgets last year, and says his acceptance to the Bandits, as well as his decision to play in Elk Point "are a credit to our minor hockey system."

Kenyon will still be affiliated with the Bandits, and will play a few games with that team, when those games fit in with the Thunder schedule.

Thunder started dryland training almost six weeks ago, and has had one skating practice in Bonnyville so far this year.

Alberta Tax Reform Commission Public Consultation

The six-member Alberta Tax Reform Commission is conducting a comprehensive review of the province's tax system, with the objective of improving competitiveness and stimulating investment. We want to hear from you.

WHAT'S NEWS AT THE LIBRARY?

Support the Friends of the Library by coming to their Annual Meeting on Thursday, October 21 at 7 p.m. in the Library. The Friends do a great job of helping to support the Library and would be very happy to have more members join their ranks.

The Library Board and staff would like to thank everyone who participated in the annual Pie Sale. It was a very successful sale, as we raised $264.

We would like to thank Lawrence Pidluzny for his slide presentation on Singapore, Thailand and Malaysia on Wednesday, October 13. It was a most enjoyable evening.

One of the resources we offer to the public is Canada's Postal Code Directory. If you find you need a postal code number and the post office is closed, please come in and use this service.

Library needs friends

Parents! Just a reminder that we have preschool storytime every Friday at 10:30 a.m. We would like to thank the mothers for helping out with stories, songs, fingerplays and puppet shows. This makes our storytime more exciting for the children. If any parent would like to help out with storytime, just let us know. We have an average of 25 children a week, so this program is well attended.

Something to think about:

how many hours is the library open to the public each week?

Some of the children's videos that were purchased with money donated by Pan-Canadian Petroleum are now ready to be taken out: Jim Henson's It's The Muppets!, Adventures in Wonderland: The Missing Ring Mystery and Hare Raising Magic, Singalong Songs: Be Our Guest and I Love To Laugh, Walt Disney's Cartoon Classic Mickey and The Gang, Walt Disney's classic Winnie The Pooh and A Day For Eeyore, Disney's Goof Troop: Goin' Fishing and much more.

Our policy on taking out videos is now two videos per adult card, and videos can be taken out for three days.

New Books

In our children's section we have Angela's Birthday Surprise by Katharine Holabird, The Berenstain Bears and Too Much Pressure by Stan and Jan Berenstain, Clifford's Kittens by Norman Bridwell and The Snow Cat by Dayal Kaur Khalsa.

Thanks to the Elk Point Community Choir for donating the music cassette For The Joy Of It for our patrons' listening pleasure.

Toni Morrison, author of the books Jazz and Beloved has won the Nobel Prize for Literature. Both of these books are now available at our library.

Further ed news

Here comes our Fall and Winter series of Brown Bag Sessions! These brief but informative sessions run from 12:07 to 12:53 p.m. each Wednesday from October 27 to December 8. Look at this lineup: October 27 - Food Grains of Alberta; November 3 - Personal Security Systems; November 10 - Canada's Food Guide; November 17 - Back Care; November 24 - Keeping Fit and Healthy; December 1 - Christmas Appetizers; December 8 - Christmas Drums.

If you want to make a really unique gift, why not create an original Oil Painting? Classes go Thursday evenings, 7 to 10 p.m., from October 28 to December 2.

November starts out with Standard First Aid on November 1, 8, 15 and 22, from 6 to 10 p.m.

Perk up a ponytail with our Bows! Bows! Bows! This one evening session goes November 3 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Or, if you prefer a different hairstyle, learn Hair Braiding on November 10 from 7 to 10 p.m.

The season is sneaking up on us! Register now for the Christmas Idea Exchange, Tuesday, November 16 from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. Bring your ideas for Christmas decorating, entertaining or crafts, and we'll swap!

Speaking of Christmas, how about wrapping up some treats in Elf and Angel Gift

Bags for someone special? This one evening session is slated for November 17, 7 to 10 p.m.

To register for any of these courses, or for more information, call Verona Lea at 724-4101 or 724-2269.

Ideas for busy mothers

In a world with more and more women in the workforce, moms heavily involved in school, community activities, teens with part-time jobs, and children with after-school and weekend activities that almost require a daytimer to track, it can be difficult to find time for family activities.

While the old saying "The Family that plans together stays together" may seem outdated, it holds much promise for the problems that can arise when family members are rushing off in different directions.

To make physical activity a family affair, you must find the time, then choose things that will make for a happy outing.

- Plan a family activity on a regular basis and put it on the calendar.

- Have family members take turns choosing the time so that everyone has a chance to plan around their schedules.

- Start with "bite-sized" chunks of activity if you're not very active now. Pick things that don't require too much time or energy.

- Include physical activity along with other planned events. Walk to the movie theatre for example. Or walk the kids to and from school.

The point of all this togetherness is not to make a team of super athletes, but to experience the joys and benefits of being active while at the same time having a chance to explore the thoughts and dreams of other family members.

Just remember that if parents don't make regular physical activity a priority, chances are your children won't either."

A LARGE AND HAPPY CREW - Beavers, Cubs and Scouts, along with their leaders, are ready for another busy and productive season, following last week's Investiture ceremonies. Have a great year, girls and boys!

NEW CUBS JOIN THE PACK - Wolf Cubs Christopher Korpan, Nathan Jurak and Caleb Neumier repeat their promise after District Commissioner Roxanne Ringuette while Cub leaders Bernie Korpan and Glenn Flanders look on. Scout Nathan Harper held the flag for the ceremony.

New Beavers, Cubs, Scouts invested

Elk Point Scouting Association held their annual Investiture on Wednesday, October 13, with new members joining each age group.

District Commissioner Roxanne Ringuette invested new Cub leader Jerome Keichinger, and re-invested Grant Nixon and Tim Zarowny as Scout leaders. She thanked the leaders for all the time they will devote to leadership of these young people, and said the investiture is "a public commitment to the Scouting lifestyle" and told the leaders they will live by the high principles and ideals of the Scouting movement 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

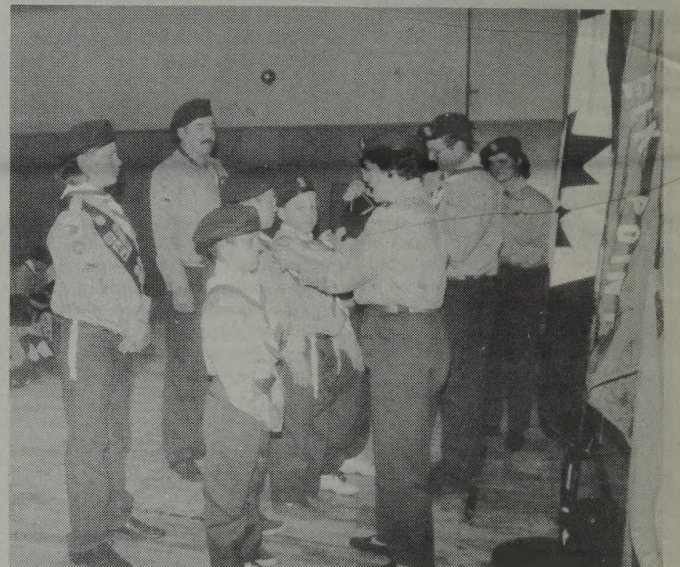

Seven new Beavers joined the crew on the riverbanks. Zachary McKinnon, Amy Olstad, Kristopher Derewynka, George Krissa, Greg Kozicky, Kurt Kozicky and Adrian MacKinnon were invested by Ms. Ringuette, bringing the ranks to eleven. Aaron Jurak, Austin Jurak, Grace Huffman and Garret Zarowny make up the balance of the group.

Three new Cubs were invested, Christopher Korpan, Nathan Jurak and Caleb Neumier. Other members of the Wolf Cub pack are Brett Flanders, Jennifer Flanders, Melvin Easthope, Matt Huffman, Kenny Nixon, Matt Zarowny, Chad Keichinger and Evan Way.

Elk Point once again has a Scout troop, after a year's absence. Casper Zarowny, Michael Povaschuk, Gary O'Neill and Spencer Easthope were invested on Wednesday, joining previous Scout Nathan Harper.

Following the investiture, Group Chairperson Ian Huffman and the leaders lined up at the front of the room to lead an action song, with help from Ms. Ringuette. Huffman later expressed thanks to the Association's chaplain, Rev. Sam Donaldson, to Lions Club liaison Glenn Flanders and to Ms. Ringuette, and wished all the leaders a successful year.
